A film by Ian David Nsenga

A teenager in a trailer park is the only steady thing his family has.

SHORT FILM / DRAMA / 2026

GROWING UP. HOLDING ON.

Riley Marshall is a teenager living in a trailer park, and the grown-up of the house. He goes to school, works evenings at a convenience store and looks after his younger brother, Josh, while their mother struggles with addiction. When money runs short, a local dealer offers him a fast way out. Riley has to decide how far he will go to keep his family together, as the outside world begins to notice how close it is to coming apart.

AT THE CENTRE

A brother trying to protect his family. A mother struggling with addiction. A home that depends on a teenager to keep it together.

THE WORLD

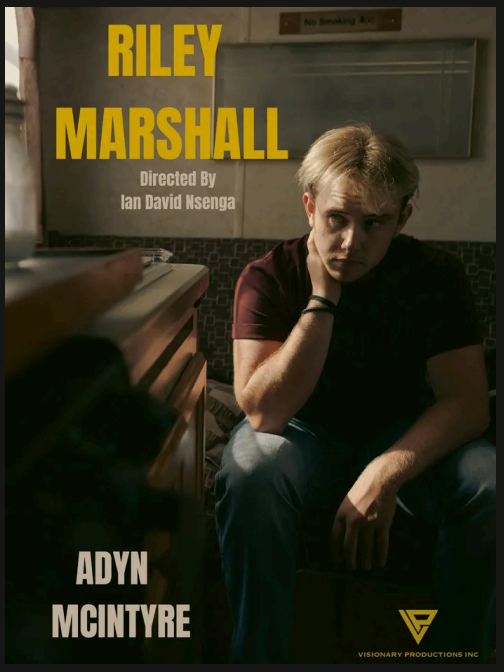

School, the trailer park and evening shifts at a convenience store frame Riley's daily life. The promise of fast money puts that fragile routine at risk.
